Shree Sai Academy of Research and Higher Education at its core

In the spirit of Shri Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan's vision, "the end product of education should be a free, creative man who can battle against historical circumstances and adversities". The Vishwavidyalaya must, therefore, be a place to help the youth develop themselves to their fullest potential and contribute to the inclusive development of the nation and a peaceful global society.

The Vishwavidhyalaya should prepare the youth to meet the challenges of a knowledge-based society, and carve out opportunities for themselves by learning to compete globally. In this direction, the need to train them outside of their regional or national "boxes" becomes a crucial component

- We need to be cognizant that education is the highest leveler of all inequities.
- We need to strengthen and promote research in interdisciplinary areas.
- We should inculcate values that incorporate diligence, perseverance, honesty, and integrity by upholding the parameters of transparency and accountability. We must imbibe what Albert Einstein believed: "try not to become a man of success, but rather to become a man of values".
- We need to create a team of dedicated research-focused faculty, and give them the opportunities and responsibility for initiatives, and reward them for notable effort and results.

To me, strong leadership is about consensus building, effective navigation, and balancing and synergizing the pillars of an institution such as ours: its students, faculty, and administration. The reporting system is the key to the health of an institution. Transparency and accountability have to be the motto of every establishment as it reflects quality, confidence, and trust. For a strong organizational structure, I believe, there has to be a periodic macro and microanalysis of our strengths and shortcomings. Corrective measures, consolidation, and capacity building will then be in order.

I believe Henry Ford was right when he said "coming together is the beginning, keeping together is progress, and working together is success".

Best wishes,
Vice - Chancellor@SSAU
